MARK RONSON IN PARADISE ★NEW

POSTED THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 2008

Fancy rubbing shoulders with DJ and producer of the moment Mark Ronson when you are on holiday? Then you will be best off booking a trip to Bora Bora in Tahiti. Our spies tell us that Mark Ronson returns often, and gave the paradise island a special mention when he filmed 4Music for The Hits. "It is beautiful in Bora Bora and a place I really love going to," Mark said. "It is somewhere you feel you can just get away from it all. I am definitely a beach person." You heard it here first...

ROBERT DE NIRO'S NEW PAD

POSTED WEDNESDAY, MARCH 26, 2008

Successful actor and restaurateur Robert De Niro - who is behind Nobu - is opening a luxury hotel with business partners Ira Drukier and Richard Born on 1 April in New York City. The Greenwich Hotel, on 377 Greenwich Street, is located in the heart of TriBeCa and has eight floors, 88 rooms and 13 suites. "Our goal was to create a space that would serve guests more as a residence than a hotel," says Bobby himself. "We're very happy with the balance of comfort and and we're confident that it offers a rare hospitality experience." www.thegreenwichhotel.com

GIRLS ALOUD IN ITALY

POSTED TUESDAY, MARCH 25, 2008

Even glamorous pop starlets like Girls Aloud need a break at times, and when the girls hop on a plane with destination Italy, they make sure a stay at Villa Mangiacane in Tuscany has been booked. The hotel is as private as they come - set within acres and acres of beautiful vineyards away from any commotion or paparazzi. The house itself is typically Tuscan and dates from the 16th century. www.villamangiacane.com
